Membership is by invitation only and has to be sponsored by two members.

Honors and Awards Received

Kent-Aronoff Service Award, Associate of Private Enterprise Education. (April 2014)

The Kent-Aronoff Award honors and recognizes a member of APEE who, over a sustained and continuous period of time, has continued to unselfishly give of himself/herself to the growth and perpetuation of the organization. Individuals who receive the Kent-Aronoff Award have made the personal sacrifices of their time and talent to see that this organization continues to flourish and to serve both as a beacon and a harbor for those who support the American Free Enterprise System and are involved in programs that seek to see that system continue. The award is given in recognition of the simple fact that the burdens of all within the organization are shouldered by only a few.

Grants

Padilla, A., "Exploring Economic Freedom," Sponsored by Charles G. Koch Charitable Foundation, Private, $12,000.00. (August 2018 – May 2019). The grant was awarded in Summer 2019 and was used to organize a talk by Bryan Caplan to discuss his new book at Princeton University Press (2018): The Case Against Education and another talk by Robert A. Lawson and Benjamin W. Powell to talk about their forthcoming book: Socialism Sucks (July 2019). The grant was also used to send a student to present his research co-authored with Alexandre Padilla and Nicolas Cachanosky at the 2019 APEE's

Undergraduate Research Poster Competition on Immigration and Economic Freedom: Does Immigrants' Education Level Matter?

Padilla, A., "Exploring Economic Freedom," Sponsored by Charles G. Koch Charitable Foundation, Private, $10,000.00. (February 2018 - May 2018).

The grant was awarded on January 20th, 2017 to organize a panel discussion around Chris Coyne and Abigail Hall's new book, Tyranny Comes Home: The Domestic Fate of U.S. Militarism (California: Stanford University Press, Spring 2018). The event will take place on April 18th, 2018.

Padilla, A. (Principal), "Exploring Economic Freedom Project," Sponsored by Charles G. Koch Charitable Foundation, Private, $20,000.00. (October 1, 2015 - May 15, 2016).

The grant I received was increased from $15,000 to $20,000 to sponsor two debates on campus. The first debate will take place on November 10th, 2015 and will be on Immigration. The second debate will take place in Spring 2016 and likely to be on income inequality.

Padilla, A. (Primary Author), "Exploring Economic Freedom Project," Sponsored by Charles G. Koch Charitable Foundation, Private, $15,000.00. (September 1, 2014 - June 1, 2015).

Statement of Purpose: The purpose of this grant is to educate students on the benefits (and costs) of economic and political freedom as essential factors to promote entrepreneurship, economic growth, prosperity, and peace. A second purpose of the grant is to actively mentor students who want to enter graduate school by providing the opportunity to do some undergraduate research and/or attend professional academic conferences, educational summer seminars.

Padilla, A. (Primary Author), "Exploring Economic Freedom Project," Sponsored by Charles G. Koch Charitable Foundation, Private, $15,000.00. (August 27, 2013 - June 10, 2014).

Local, Columbia Economics Club/ The RAST Group/Morgan Stanley, Guest Speaker, December 13, 2013

I was invited by the Columbia Economics Club to give a talk on insider trading. The members in attendance were lawyers, local businessmen and businesswomen, judges, etc. Honorarium was $300 + expenses (flight + taxi + hotel).

Local, Liberty on the Rocks Denver, Guest Speaker, December 4, 2013

I was invited to give a talk for the local chapter of Liberty on the Rocks. The talk was on immigration. The purpose of my talk was to clarify some concerns laymen and laywomen may have about immigration. I provided empirical evidence explaining how most of the concerns regarding the costs of immigration are exaggerated or actually inaccurate. In short, the presentation showed that immigration's benefits exceed their costs.

Local, Denver Business Economists Association, Guest Speaker, October 10, 2012

I made a presentation on Crony Capitalism in which I explained the difference between economic and political entrepreneurship and described various factors that have contributed to increase of crony capitalism.

Pikes Peak Economics Club, May 17, 2007

"The Law, Economics, and Ethics of Insider Trading" I gave a lecture on insider trading discussing the arguments for and against regulating insider trading with a specific focus on harm on investors and capital markets development.
